

Diocese of St. Petersburg Consecration to the Immaculate Heart of Mary

Bishop Parkes will consecrate the Diocese of St. Petersburg to the Immaculate Heart of Mary on May 6, 2018. Parishes are encouraged to prepare their community for this consecration by promoting and/or organizing a small group study using 33 Days to Morning Glory and/or its 6-week retreat process. The start date for using these resources is April 2, 2018, Easter Monday, with the retreat Introductory Session being offered on a date of your choosing, during the Lenten Season. Here are three suggested options for parish participation:

Option 1: Parish leadership promotes and organizes the 33 Days to Morning Glory book study and the use of the Retreat Companion and videos in small groups. In addition to promoting the book study, schedule and retreat resources, your parish would be responsible for organizing the small groups and training the small group facilitators. Small groups would meet at various days and times, at the parish or in homes. This would be an excellent opportunity to launch or re-launch ongoing small Christian communities in your parish.

Option 2: Parish leadership promotes the 33 Days to Morning Glory book study and promotes the use of the Retreat Companion and videos to individual, families and small groups to prepare for Consecration on May 6. In addition to the book study, participants are asked to journal using the 33 Days to Morning Glory Retreat Companion. Families or small groups would arrange to meet weekly for 6 weeks to watch a video of Fr. Michael Gaitley summarizing the week and discuss their answers to the questions from the retreat companion.

Option 3: Parish leadership promotes the 33 Days to Morning Glory book study for individuals, families and small groups to prepare for Consecration on May 6. Your parish can purchase and give away the book after all Masses, or can make the books available for a small donation ($5 suggested per book). Your parish shares the schedule showing what to read each day, (available for download here).
