

Alejandro “Alex” Posada was born in Tampa, Florida. A parishioner from Christ the King, he graduated from Tampa’s Jesuit High School in 2008 and Florida State University in 2012. The oldest of three siblings born to Cuban refugee parents, Alex is very close to his family and thinks of his Parish as a “second family,” of sorts. Upon graduating from Florida State, Alex worked in a number of fields, before reflecting more seriously upon discerning the Priesthood. What drew him most deeply into applying to St. John Vianney College Seminary, were the beauty of the Sacred Liturgy, the rich intellectual heritage of the Church (especially the writings of Pope St. John Paul the Great and Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger/Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI), Gregorian Chant, and the examples of the many holy Saints (especially Saints Augustine, Athanasius, and Thomas Aquinas).
