Benjamin Harris

I was born in Indianapolis, Indiana to a Catholic family of 6, with two brothers and a sister. When I was 7 or 8, I moved to Florida, where I have now spent the majority of my life. I first moved from Indiana to the Pinellas County area, but later moved to Pasco County where I spent most of my years, graduating from Hudson High School in 2015. Shortly after high school, I spent a short time in Massachusetts as a full-time missionary with the Marian Missionaries of Divine Mercy in 2016. Since then and before entering seminary, I worked in the food industry, elderly care, and most recently, highway construction and maintenance. In 2020, I decided to entertain a call that I felt in my heart for years since I was 18 and entered seminary at St. John Vianney College Seminary in Miami, Florida. I am now going on to my sophomore year of philosophy at St. Joseph Seminary College at St. Joseph Abbey in Covington, Louisiana. I enjoy cooking, grilling, and playing sports.
