

Determining Who Is Nonexempt and Exempt

In a nutshell: As of Aug. 23, if you make less than $23,660 a year, you're nonexempt and eligible for overtime. If you make more than $100,000 a year, you are not eligible for overtime

Revised 1/1/2020. Changes include raising the "standard salary level" from the previous level of $455 per week ($23,660 annual) to $684 per week ($35,568 per year).

Exemption for Executive, Administrative, Professional, & Computer Employees Under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA)

This fact sheet provides general information on the exemption from minimum wage and overtime pay provided by Section 13(a)(1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act as defined by Regulations, 29 CFR Part 541.

The FLSA requires that most employees in the United States be paid at least the federal minimum wage for all hours worked and overtime pay at time and one-half the regular rate of pay for all hours worked over 40 hours in a workweek.

However, Section 13(a)(1) of the FLSA provides an exemption from both minimum wage and overtime pay for employees employed as bona fide executive, administrative, professional and outside sales employees. Section 13(a)(1) and Section 13(a)(17) also exempt certain computer employees. To qualify for exemption, employees generally must meet certain tests regarding their job duties and be paid on a salary basis at not less than $455 per week ($23,660 per year). Job titles do not determine exempt status. In order for an exemption to apply, an employee's specific job duties and salary must meet all the requirements of the Department's regulations.

See other fact sheets in this series for more detailed information on the specific exemptions for executive, administrative, professional, computer, and outside sales employees, and for more information on the salary basis requirement.
