Music Copyright, Royalties

The duplication of music, lyrics, or both requires the institution to have a license or written permission from the publisher. The verification of permission to duplicate the music, lyrics, or both must be published in the event's program.

A school/center is required to purchase the rights to produce a play. By paying the royalties, a school/center receives copies of the scripts and music, if applicable, which may or may not be duplicated. The event program must contain an acknowledgement of the company to which the royalties were paid.
